QUESTION
A 60-year-old male with a 20-year history of type 2 diabetes mellitus presents to the clinic with a 2-week history of increasing fatigue, weight loss, and decreased appetite. He reports that he has been unable to tolerate his usual diet and has lost approximately 10 pounds (4.5 kg) over the past few months. He has no history of alcohol consumption, smoking, or recent travel. His medical history is significant for hypertension, hyperlipidemia, and chronic kidney disease (stage 3). He is currently taking metformin, insulin glargine, and lisinopril. His last hemoglobin A1c was 8.5% (69 mmol/mol). Physical examination reveals a thin, elderly man with no acute abnormalities. Laboratory studies show a hemoglobin of 11 g/dL (7.0 mmol/L), serum ferritin of 100 ng/mL, and a positive result on a fecal occult blood test. Which of the following is the most likely cause of his symptoms?

ANSWER
A. Iron deficiency anemia
B. Vitamin B12 deficiency
C. Folate deficiency
D. Chronic kidney disease
E. Type 2 diabetes mellitus
